From transport and energy, to trade and the economy, the Von der Leyen Commission’s Green Deal is the flagship initiative to be weaved into EU policies for the next four years. Since the Covid-19 crisis, the Green Deal has become even more paramount, in a global conversation of “building back better” and “greening the recovery.”

The ECPA, in conjunction with Acumen, proposes a conversation with former MEP and Vice Chair of the Environment and Public Health Committee, Seb Dance. During his six years in the European Parliament, Seb was renowned as a specialist on emissions-reduction and air quality, and a consensus-builder to drive ambitious targets through the European Parliament.

The event, moderated by Acumen’s Senior Advisor on Energy and Climate, Jon Coniam, will provide an opportunity to hear and debate Seb’s views on how, when and why to engage on the Green Deal, followed by a Q&A session.
